The push for LGBT+ equality has become a hot topic in popular culture today and it seems like everybody has an opinion. But to really understand this modern movement, you have to understand the real people behind it.

Hosting an OutSpeaking panel will give you and your class or organization the opportunity to explore LGBT+ identities, issues, and experiences through an intimate question-and-answer discussion format.

Panels can be requested to address a diverse range of trending topics including marriage equality, transgender identities, discrimination, religious experience, ally development and much more.

Panelists also have basic knowledge about the LGBTQA+ Resource Center on campus and what other services, resources and programming we provide.

Our mission is to create a safe space for meaningful dialogue on complex issues between marginalized and privileged groups. Through sharing our stories, we seek to tear down stereotypes and replace them with empathy and understanding for our community.

To learn more about OutSpeaking or to request an educational panel, visit: involved.unl.edu/outspeaking or contact Audrey at lgbtqa.outspeaking@unl.edu
